LINEUP

With Summerfest being the largest music festival in the world, it should come as no surprise that the festival is about for over 600 bands. However, it still sounds unreal. 800 bands in 11 days – that's a lot of music. The variety in music offers almost any type you could wish for. There are eleven music stages set up along the water front where fans will experience some of the world's best performers. It's one huge party filled with music lovers of all ages from all sorts of places. Many fans are brought back year after year, because they just can't seem to get enough of the experience and the music. Although the entire lineup has not yet fully been released, things look to be off to a very good start. With only the few bands that have been announced so far, excitement and anticipation for the festival has already begun in music fans everywhere.

WHAT TO BRING

Typically, things get pretty hot down at the waterfront, so be sure to pack for the weather with your best summer outfit. Of course, a jacket or lightweight hoodie is great to have for when it gets chilly at night. Flip flops are tempting when you're so close to the beach but, remember that your feet might hurt after a long day of walking around the grounds. If you wish to avoid that, wear comfortable shoes. A small tote or purse is allowed within the festival grounds, however, backpacks and large purses (over 9X10X12 inches) or coolers are not permitted. So only pack the necessities: sunglasses, sunscreen, and an empty water bottle are always concert essentials. Many people bring in beach towels or blankets to sit on, but if you don't want to carry one around there's no need to worry – there will be plenty of seating. There will be a variety of delicious food and beverages available, so be sure to bring some cash along. As with most festivals, individuality and uniqueness are encouraged. So wear whatever makes you feel like your best self.
